AN INGENIOUS DEVICE FOR BREAKING THE DEADLOCK PROPOSED.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—As may be expected the air is full of rumors of breaking the deadlock and many ingenious devices for the accomplishment thereof are constantly being devised. The latest and about the best plan proposed, so far, is that the President shall send a message to the Senate informing that body that he is advised that the Senate is not organized in such a way as to permit of the confirmation of his appointments, and that he will withdraw the nominations that he has made until the Senate can organize. This would deprive the Democrats of the excuse which they now have for declining to proceed to a vote directly upon the resolution for the election of officers. If, after his message and the withdrawal of the nomination, the Democrats should force a final adjournment, the President then could renominate all the persons whom he has already nominated, and they could serve at least until the next regular session of Congress, as provided by the Constitution and the Tenure-of-Office act. The greatest drawback to this ingenious plan is that it requires the co operation of the President, and it is not probable that he will consent to any such scheme.

CONGRESSMAN O'CONNOR DEAD.

A despatch received here announces the death of Mr. O'Connor at Charleston, S. C., Representative in Congress from that district. The new election which will be caused by his death will raise some rather novel questions. His seat was contested in the Forty-seventh Congress, and the Republican contestant claimed that he could establish his right to it.

The Vice President laid before the Senate the unfinished business—the resolution for the election of Senate officers.

The usual motion to go into executive session was lost. Yeas 24, nays 24.

Mr. Jones (Dem., Fla.) regretting the absence of the Senator from Maine (Mr. Fry, Rep.) then proceeded to reply to certain parts of that gentleman's speech.

The United States steamer Galena has been ordered by Rear-Admiral Howell to visit Chio and render assistance.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

Notice has been sent to the Republican Senators that a caucus will be held tomorrow morning. There is a strong minority in favor of going on at once with the executive business, and it is generally believed that this course will be agreed upon. The opposition, however, is strong.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Today an application for a new trial, and also for an arrest of judgment was made in the case of Professor William E. Sawyer who was convicted yesterday of shooting Dr. Theophilus Steele, with intent to injure.

2,082 emigrants arrived here yesterday; 688 were vaccinated at Castle Garden.

Dr. Day, the Sanitary Superintendent, and Dr. Janes, his assistant, declare that all rumors of Asiatic cholera existing up town are unfounded. There has been no report made to the Board of Health of any cholera anywhere in this city, and there seems to be no likelihood of its appearance here.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Arrangements have been completed by the Thirteenth Regiment for the reception and banquet to the Fifth Massachusetts Regiment on its visit here on Decoration day.

Whitelaw Reid sent 65 people to Western homes last night.

Seven dead bodies of infants were found in the banks of a creek at East Nowark esterday, preserved in alcohol in glass jars.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE JAMES T. FIELDS.

BOSTON, April 26.—The funeral services of the late James T. Fields which took place today were of the simplest and most private character, Rev. Dr. Bartol officiating. The principal persons present, beside the members of the family, were Mr. Henry W. Longfellow, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Mr. T. B. Aldrich, Rev. Dr. Collyer, Rev. W. W. Newton. Among the floral designs was a very beautiful one sent in behalf of the booksellers and publishers of Boston. It was in the form of an open book, on one page of which were the initials, "J. T. F.," a wreath adorning the other. Appropriate music was furnished by a quartette from the choir of the South Congregational Church. After prayer and brief words from the clergyman the services closed, and the remains were followed to their last resting place at Mt. Auburn.

At the meeting of the booksellers and publishers of this city held in the Old Corner Bookstore this morning, resolutions of condolence and sympathy with the bereaved family were passed and ordered to be sent to Mrs. Fields.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Peace Probable at Athens.

LONDON, April 26.—The Times correspondent at Athens says:—Public opinion at Athens favors the acceptance of the position without needless delay. The Hora, the organ of M. Tricoupis, strongly advocates tranquil acceptance of the situation and return to the state of peace as soon as possible.

NOTES.

It is said that France will send 50,000 troops to Algeria.

Contracts have been made to carry 60,000 emigrants from Norway and Sweden to Hull, Eng., whence they will proceed to Liverpool and thence to America.

Another audacious address to the Czar is issued by the Nihilists, pointing out that the indiscriminate execution of those concerned in the assassination of Alexander II. only served to strengthen the ranks of the Nihilists by driving many lukewarm malcontents into the extreme faction of the party.

BEACONSFIELD'S BURIAL.

LONDON, April 26—3 P. M.—From early this morning railway trains have been arriving at Wycombe bringing large numbers of people of all classes for Hughenden, to be present at the ceremonies of Lord Beaconsfield. The weather is rather showery. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught and Prince Leopold, the latter bearing a large wreath from the Queen, left Paddington about 1 o'clock. The same train took the Duke of Richmond, the Marquis of Hamilton and a number of members of the late government. The Marquis of Hartington left Paddington somewhat later. Mr. Gladstone, according to the latest accounts, has not gone to Hughenden. Flags are at half mast and other signs of mourning are displayed in various towns throughout the country.

LATER.—The crowd at Lord Beaconsfield's funeral is somewhat less than expected. Many persons who intended to be present have probably been deterred by the occasional sharp showers of hail. The Princess of Wales sent a wreath.

According to the latest arrangements the Crown Prince Rudolf of Austria, who is to marry the Princess Stephanie of Belgium, will not go to Brussels, but will meet his bride at Salzburg, Austria, on the fifth of May.

Mr. Bradlaugh having refused to withdraw from the House today, the speaker asked power to act. Mr. Gladstone declined to interfere, and Sir Stafford Northcote said that as the leader of the House had abdicated his functions, he would take the responsibility of moving that Mr. Bradlaugh be expelled from the House. The speaker then called the sergeant-at-arms, but Mr. Bradlaugh resisted, and assistance was procured to expel him. While this scene was proceeding an adjournment of the House was moved, and the members dispersed. The action of the House in expelling Mr. Bradlaugh has caused a great sensation.

SWEAR NOT AT ALL.

BRADLAUGH AGAIN EXPELLED. — WHEN HE COULD SWEAR HE WOULDN'T AND WHEN HE WOULD HE COULDN'T.

LONDON, April 27.—In the House of Commons, last evening, when Mr. Bradlaugh presented himself to take the oath, Sir Stafford Northcote moved that he be not allowed to do so. Mr. Bright and Mr. Gladstone argued against the motion, and a stirring debate followed, after which Sir Stafford Northcote's motion was carried by a vote of 208 against 175. Upon the announcement of the vote the Tories were very jubilant.

The Prince of Wales will go Vienna to witness the marriage of Crown Prince Rudolph to Princess Stephanie.

King George and Premier Commoundouros are at their country seats, to remain until Wednesday. An answer to the powers will be sent on their return to Athens.

WHITELAW REID WEDDED.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The Reid-Mills wedding ceremony today took place at the house of the bride's parents on Fifth avenue, opposite the Cathedral, and was intended to be as quiet as possible, and few apparently were invited beside the immediate family and more intimate personal friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Wm. F. Morgan, rector of St. Thomas. The bridesmaids were Miss Thompson and Miss Reid. The ushers were Ogden Mills, Clarence King, Augustus C. Gurnee and Charles S. Hurd. The presents were not exhibited. The bridal party go West immediately to visit Mr. Reid's invalid mother and sail for Europe early in May.

STAR ROUTE REMOVALS.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—George A. Sheridan, Recorder of Deeds of this district, is to be removed on account of his connection with postoffice contracts under General Brady. He will be succeeded by Fred Douglass, and the latter will be replaced by Captain Henry, of Ohio.

The resignation of J. L. French, chief clerk of the contract office under General Brady, was demanded today. He declined to resign claiming that to do so would be to confess himself guilty of charges made against him. The Postmaster General will issue an order for his removal.

SECRETARY WINDOM AND THE SIX PER CENTS.

NEW YORK, April 26.—In a letter to Senator Dawes, Secretary Windom said a suggestion from a Boston banker that the several Assistant Treasurers of the United States should be authorized to receive the United States bonds proposed to be "continued" under the terms of Department Circular No. 42 of April 11, 1881, returning the same to the owners after stamping the bonds with the evidence of their "continuance," is not deemed practicable.

THE CHINESE MUST GO.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Eighteen cases of small-pox were discovered on board the steamer Oceanic which brought here 230 Chinese and 60 white passengers. The epidemic was discovered among them two days after leaving HongKong. The quartermaster was taken to the pest house on Saturday. The Board of Health is puzzled with the importunities of the passengers on one side and the demands of citizens on the other for protection against infection. The preceding steamer brought over 600 Chinese, and the next to arrive will bring over 800. Two barques are on the way to Victoria and Westminster, B. C., with over 500. One of our millionaire capitalists now in New York and his associate railroad builders have sent an agent to China for 5000 coolies. Other speculators have sent there for large numbers to anticipate the effect of the new treaty. A Chinese official here states that large numbers are going to our Southern states.

THE ARROW OF THE HEART, A SWEET VOICE.

Yes, we agree with that old poet who said that a low, soft voice was an excellent thing in woman. Indeed we feel inclined to go much farther than he has on the subject, and call it one of her crowning charms. No matter what other attractions she may still have; she may be as fair as the Trojan Helen, and as learned as the famous Hypatria of ancient times; she may have all the accomplishment considered requisite at the present day, and every advantage that wealth may procure, and yet if she lack a low, sweet voice she can never be really fascinating. How often the spell of beauty is broken by coarse, loud talking! How often you are irresistibly drawn to a plain, unassuming woman, whose soft, silvery tones render her positively attractive. Besides, we fancy we can judge of the character by the voice; the bland, smooth, fawning tones seem, to us to betoken deceit and hypocrisy, as invariably as the musical, subdued voice indicates a genuine refinement. In the social circle, how pleasant it is to hear a woman talk in that low key which always characterizes the true lady. In the sanctuary of home how such a voice soothes the fretful temper and cheers the weary husband. How sweetly such cadences float through the sick room, and around the dying bed, with what solemn melody do they breathe a prayer for a departing soul.

What is the world? A dream within a dream; as we grow older, each step is an inward wakening. The youth awakes, as he thinks, from childhood; the full-grown man despises the pursuits of youth as visionary; the old man looks on manhood as a feverish dream. Is death the last sleep? No, it is the last and final awakening.

PERSONALS.

.....The library of the late Rev. Dr. E. H. Chapin cost about $100,000.

.....It is understood that Mr. Fields had expressed the intention of leaving most of the best books of his valuable collection to Dartmouth College.

.....Gov. Long and the executive council, of Massachusetts, will visit the state prison, insane asylum and other New Hampshire institutions the 28th.

.....Ex-Empress Eugenie passed through Paris on her way to Milan, to be present at the unveiling of a subscription statue to the Emperor Napoleon III.

.....Mrs. Olyphant is writing "A Literary History of the Nineteenth Century." It will be in three volumes, and is to be published by Macmillan & Co.

.....President and Mrs. Garfield and Secretary Blaine expect to be present at the unveiling of the Morgan statue at Spartanburg, S. C., on May 11. Ex-President and Mrs. Hayes will probably be there also.

WHO ARE THEY?

THE NICKNAMES OF THREE LADIES WELL-KNOWN IN NEWPORT.

The Buffalo Sunday News says:—In society slang the rage just now is for nicknames for well-known ladies. Three ladies of title in England—a duchess, a countess, and a viscountess—have been respectively dubbed the "World," the "Flesh," and the "Devil," and the same titles are applied to three ladies well known in Newport. "Battle," "Murder," and "Sudden Death," are names given to three beautiful sisters, now all married, but who, a few years since, were slaying their thousands and their tens of thousands by the potency of their charms. The eldest, who was, perhaps, the least attractive of the three, was supposed to do battle with her adorers, and in fair combat, to give them a chance to escape, although generally coming off victorious; the second to destroy them single-handed, in cold blood; and the third, whose beauty was quite irresistible, to bring her victims down with swift and sudden shots.

WEALTH AND MEANNESS.

I tell you that, in nine cases out of ten, great acquired wealth lifts up in monumental testimony the meanness of its possessor. I knew two neighbors, old California forty-niners, who had about equal fortunes. They were both old settlers, both rich and both much respected. In that fearful year, 1852, when the dying and destitute immigrants literally crawled on hands and knees over the Sierra trying to reach the settlements, one of these men drove all the cattle up the mountains, butchered them, and fed the starving. He had his Mexicans pack all the mules with flour, which at that time cost almost its weight in gold, and push on night and day over the mountains to meet the strangers there and feed them, so that they might have strength to reach his house, where they could have shelter. The other man, cold and cautious, saw his opportunity and embraced it. He sat at home and sold all his wheat and mules and meat, and with the vast opportunities for turning money to account in that new country soon became almost a prince in fortune. But his generous neighbor died a beggar in Idaho, where he had gone to try and make another fortune. He literally had not money enough to buy a shroud, and as he died among strangers by the roadside he was buried without so much as a pine board coffin. I saw his grave there only last year. Some one had set up a rough granite stone at the head. And that is all. No name—not even a letter nor date. Nothing. But that boulder was fashioned by the hand of Almighty God, and in the little seams and dots and moss-y scars that cover it He can read the rubric that chronicles the secret virtues of this lone dead man on the snowy mountains of Idaho. The children of the "Prince" are in Paris. Upheld by his colossal wealth their lives seem to embrace the universal world. He is my friend. He buys all my books and reads every line I write. When he comes to this sketch he will understand, too, that all the respect, admiration and love which the new land once gave these two men gather around and is buried beneath that moss grown granite stone, and that I know with all his show of splendor, that his heart is as cold and empty as that dead man's hand.—[Joaquin Miller.

INFLUENCE OF WHALES ON FISHING.—M. Bogdanoff, who took part in the Russian North Sea Expedition sent out during last summer, communicated, at the general meeting of the St. Petersburg Society of Naturalists, his observations on the influence of whaling on the Normandic coast, which illustrates very well the complicated chain which exists in the animal world. The whale used to be very important to the fisheries, as during the spring it drove to the coast immense shoals of small fishes. Now, whaling being pursued by means of steamers which use a bullet instead of the old harpoon, and the annual number of whales killed during the past seventeen years, being from fifty to one hundred and forty-three, the amount of small fishes coming to the coast has much diminished. Besides, the great quantity of fat which is thrown into the sea at Veranger attracts the sharks, and these last destroy codfish, so that now the codfish is nearly extinct in the western parts of the Veranger fjord region.—[Nature.

The handling of petroleum in any considerable quantity is, as is well known, attended by much danger, on account of its explosiveness and the rapidity with which fire is spread thereby. M. Ichlumberger, whose mind has for some time been occupied with this subject, has finally proposed a plan by which he believes that all fire following an explosion may be prevented. His method is the placing of a moderately large bottle of aqua ammonia upon every barrel or keg of petroleum. Should an explosion occur, the shock will shatter the bottle, spread the fumes of the ammonia in the atmosphere, and produce an automatic and infallible extinction of the flames. M. Ichlumberger is very confident of the efficacy of this plan, and believes it would also prove valuable for extinguishing the fire caused by explosions in mines.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY.

On the whole, literary thieving is a dangerous game. An Irish Bishop, the late Lord Plunkett, delivered as his own a charge of the then Archbishop of Canterbury, but he found himself in a tight place when his admiring clergy insisted upon its publication. Perhaps some men do not know their own intellectual property from that of others. A good story was told of a Charles Lever, when he was a newspaper reporter in Dublin. There was a big land meeting at which a rising barrister and Junior Fellow of Trinity College was to make the speech of the evening. Lever got his manuscript beforehand and had it set up for the morning papers. But just before the time came for the eloquent young man to rise, a stupid peer and large landed proprietor entered and, sending excuses to the barrister, the chairman called upon the nobleman. Lever thought the speech in type too good to be lost, so he just changed the name of the speaker, and the noble lord meeting him soon after said:—"That was an excellent report you gave of my speech. I didn't know I said half so much, but they tell me that when I once get going I excel myself and have no idea of the effect I produce."

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

Germany has now 8000 miles of underground wire.

The New Zealand government has ordered seventy bell telephones.

The New York Poe Monument Fund now amounts to a little over $2,000.

New York proposes exempting steamers engaged in foreign commerce from local taxation.

A block of granite has been quarried at Westerly, which weighed over 2000 tons, and was 75 feet long, 40 wide and 8 deep.

New London county, Conn., is to have its history worked up by Philadelphia publishers, and the work of collecting material will begin at once.

Harper's and Scribner's have large circulations abroad. Here they retail for thirty-five cents each. In England they sell for twenty-five cents each.

A new warehouse has been built on the wharf of the New York and New England railroad at Boston, covering two and a half acres and having 24 feet of water at low tide on each side.

The telephone dispatch company of Boston is to try the experiment of carrying wires underground in a cable. It will consist of a combination of 50 small copper wires, insulated and protected by a coating of lead, the whole probably not exceeding an inch in diameter.

The invitation by the Sandwich Island Government to Chinese emigrants has resulted in such a deluge of them that they outnumber the native male population. They continued, at last accounts, to arrive by the hundred, and the authorities were considering a mode of stopping the influx.

Lord Lorne has $50,000 a year and a furnished house as Governor-General of Canada. His wife has $30,000 a year from Parliament and also a dot of $150,000 which may be presumed to add $6,000 a year more to their income, so that if the Duke of Argyll adds $14,000 a year they have $100,000, which for a childless couple is comfortable. The economy practised at Rideau Hall is very strict. The Duke of Argyll began life poor for his position, but economical habits and the rise in value of land for many years, have made him affluent. He has also received a large sum of public money as salary.

Though at thirty women's faces may be plainer they have generally more power of expression.

"A Leap in the Dark."

A MAD ACT.

The cliffs that rear their haughty head
Right o'er the river's darksome bed,
Were bare all naked, wild and gray,
There waving all with greenwood spray;
Here, trees from every crevice grew,
And o'er the crags their branches threw,
And there, all splintered and uncover,
The shivered rocks ascend to heaven.

It was a clear, bright night, in the depths of the mountain wilderness.

There was a long, deep, narrow valley, running north and south, for many miles, flanked east and west by towering mountains.

The range on the east was called Cata mount Cliffs, that on the west, Panther Peak.

Deep down in the bottom of the valley ran a low and narrow river, called the Umbra.

On this night not a sound disturbed the awful solitude of the wilderness; not a living creature appeared in sight.

Human life seemed far away.

Yet had there been light enough a human form might have been seen on the eastern range.

It was the figure of a young girl, wrapped in a dark shawl that covered her from head to foot, gliding slowly, slowly down the winding mountain path, now passing out of sight behind a clump of trees, now coming into view again as the path turned in and out in its descent.

Sometimes she paused and leaned against a tree, as if for momentary support, and then the faint light of the moon fell upon an upturned, lovely young face, pallid with despair.

And now another figure appeared upon the scene, another and a taller young girl, enveloped in a long waterproof cloak, whose hood was drawn over her head.

She glided silently down the same path, in the same manner, keeping her eyes upon her predecessor, as if she were "shadowing" her—as indeed she was.

The first girl wound her way down the mountain side to the very foot of the ridge and edge of the river, between which and herself lay the tracks of a recently laid railroad, whose trains, twice a day, awoke the awful echoes of the towering rocks.

Here she sat down on a fallen boulder, let her shawl drop from her form and lay in a heap around her, clasped her hands upon her knees, and turned her woeful young face up to the starlit heavens, as if help for her hidden grief were there.

Then she looked vaguely at the little crescent of the moon that was sinking slowly behind the cedar crowned summit of the western ridge. She watched it out of sight, and then let her glance slowly drop to the river at her feet. Gazing on the low river, she began to mutter to herself as only the crazed or half crazed ever do.

"If I dared—if I dared," she whispered, her eyes dilating as she gazed down upon the river, whose shining, smooth dark surface reflected every star above. "If I only dared to take the plunge. They say the Umbra here has no bottom, at least none that has ever been sounded. Night after night I have come here—how many times—how many times; but I have never had the courage to take that plunge! What does the poet say?

"Who would not choose
The leap attaining the repose?"

Oh, but I cannot—I cannot! Oh, for one brief fit of madness to give me courage to end it all—to end it all with me—who am afraid to die, and more afraid to live. The demon has driven me to this river's brink, night after night, but he has never driven me into it. Ah-h-h!" she suddenly cried, starting to her feet. "What is that?"

It was the noise of the rushing express train from the north, gaining force and volume as it sped onward, its thunders ought up by the echoes of the rocky cliffs on each side the river, and hurled back and forth with an overwhelming uproar that filled the valley, and seemed to threaten with annihilation every living creature in it.

The girl, standing up, gazed, breathless, upon the rushing monster, whose fiery eyes and bellowing breath were almost upon her.

She pressed her left hand hard upon her heart, and bent forward, her lips apart, her eyes dilated to their utmost capacity, and blazing fiercely, as with the suddenly kindled fires of madness.

Another instant, and with a phrensied yell she threw her arms on high, and swifter than an arrow from the bow, she shot downwards from the bank and threw herself headlong upon the track, under the very heat of the rushing engine.

But swifter than the arrow was the arm of love, as the watcher sprang forward and flung her off, both falling back from the impetus clear of the track, just as the express train thundered onward, shaking the solid foundations of the mountains as it passed.

At last there was silence.

Both girls, motionless, exhausted, half paralyzed, lay together where they had fallen. The older, with every vein and artery throbbing, as if they would burst with intense excitement, still clutched the younger in her arms, and held her as in a death grip. Both were panic stricken, overwhelmed and speechless.

The deliverer was the first to recover herself.

"Were you mad?" she whispered, in a husky and almost inarticulate voice.

"Yes—mad," moaned the other, after a pause.

"Oh, why did you do it?"

"I have told you—I was mad."

There was silence for a few moments, and then the elder spoke again, gravely and tenderly.

"Bevvie! what drove you to the desperation?"

"I cannot tell you! oh, I can never tell you! I wish you had not stopped me! It would have been all over by this time," moaned the girl called Bevvie.

"All over!"

"Yes, yes, yes, yes!" wailed the girl, rocking herself back and forward—"for I should have been out of all my misery! Ora! Ora! Why did you follow me? Why did you interfere with me?"

"I have watched you for weeks; I have followed you for days. I am responsible to the Lord for you; I was in duty bound to save you, even if I had not loved you as I do, ungrateful child!"

"Oh, if you knew!—If you knew, Ora!—Ah, why did you interfere? It would have been all over now, and I should have been passed all my troubles!" wailed Bevvie.

"You say that again! And it is false! 'All over?' 'Past your trouble?' Foolish girl! you would have been before your Maker for self-murder! You would have exchanged temporal grief for eternal woe!" exclaimed the elder, in a tone of intense emotion.

"Oh, no, I hope not! for I was mad then, Ora! I was mad then; indeed I was. I had not thought of doing that act one minute before I did it! But the rush of the engine, the thunder of the noise, the uproar of the echo, the fiery eye, the flaming breath, the vision of swift and sudden death, all fascinated, maddened me as I stood alone in the dark, and drew me down to the destruction from which you snatched me!"

"And yet you seem deeply to regret being saved, and you bitterly reproach me for saving you! You are inconsistent, Bevvie! But that too is a symptom of an unsound mind! Come with me! I do not know—I cannot even hazard a conjecture, as to the nature of the grief that has unsettled you. You have steadily refused to tell me. But tonight I am determined to know! for I am in the place of a mother to you, Bevvie, and I am responsible to the Lord for your well-being. Can you walk up the steep?"

"Oh, yes, I can walk," sighed the younger girl

"Take my arm, then, and do not hesitate to lean on it with all your weight," said Ora, lifting the heavy shawl from the ground, where Bevvie had cast it, wrapping and pinning it carefully around the girl's form, and then tenderly supporting her steps as they left the spot.

And so the foster-mother of twenty-one and the adopted daughter of sixteen re-ascended the mountain path to their home, where the dread secret which had driven Bevvie to temporary madness was to be revealed. The above is the opening chapter of Mrs. Southworth's new story—"A Leap in the Dark"—which is begun in this week's New York Ledger. The story, as the reader may see from this specimen of it, is a very powerful one. It is a narrative of events that occurred in Maryland and Virginia many years ago, when every day life was wild and romantic in the mountain regions of those states. Mrs. Southworth has written many good stories, but she herself thinks that this is one of her very best. Ask for the Ledger dated May 7, which can now be had at any news office or book store.

A Modern Miracle.

THE MOST MARVELOUS EXPERIENCE OF ONE OF BOSTON'S LEADING CITIZENS.

How it Occurred.—His Description of the Circumstances, and the Overwhelming Testimony of Prominent Witnesses.

[Boston Globe, Dec. 5th.]

The readers of this paper were more or less amazed at a most remarkable statement from one of our leading citizens which appeared in yesterday's issue. So unusual were the circumstances connected with it, and so much comment did it occasion on the street and in social circles, that a representative of this paper was commissioned to investigate its details and verify its facts. The article referred to was a statement made by Mr. B. F. Larrabee, of the New York and Boston Dispatch Express Company, that after having lain at the point of death for more than three weeks, given up by both physicians and friends, he had completely and wonderfully regained his usual health. Mr. Larrabee was found in his private office on Arch street, and upon being questioned said:

"Well, sir, logically, I have been dead, but really, I am as you see me. A little over a year ago, I was taken sick, but I allowed the illness to run along until on the 26th day of October, 1879, I fell prostrate while walking along Tremont street. I was carried home and did not go out of the house until the middle of December. I then went down town and attempted to attend to my business until the 12th of last January, when I was taken with a very severe relapse. My symptoms were terrible. I was fearfully bloated; I suffered severe pains in all parts of the body and it was almost impossible to get my breath. For six days I never laid down and never slept. I was constantly attended by my regular physician, Doctor Johnson, and Doctor Bowditch also came to see me nearly every day. There was no doubt that I was suffering from Bright's disease of the Kidneys in its worst form and last stages, accompanied by other troubles in my liver and heart. In spite, however, of the skill of the physicians, I kept growing worse and finally they tapped my side in the vicinity of the heart, taking away forty-six ounces of water. This relieved me for the time, but I soon became as bad as before. Then the doctors gave me up entirely declared I could not live more than twenty-four hours and my daughter, who was residing in Paris was telegraphed for. Still I lingered along for several weeks, far more dead than alive, but never giving up hope. One night—it was on the 20th of April, I very well remember—my attendant, who was reading the paper to me, began an article which described my disease and sufferings exactly. It told how some severe cases of Bright's disease had been cured, and so clearly and sensibly did it state the case that I determined to try the means of cure which it described. So I sent my man to the drug store, procured a bottle of the medicine, unknown to my physicians and friends, and took the first dose at 10 o'clock. At that time I was suffering intensely. I could not sleep; I had the short breaths and could scarcely get any air into my lungs. I was terribly bloated from head to foot, and the motion of my heart was irregular and painful. The next morning I was able to breathe freely; the pain began to leave me and the bloating decreased. I continued to take the medicine, and today, sir, I am as well as I ever was in my life, and wholly owing to the wonderful, almost miraculous power of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I do not know what this medicine is made of, or anything else about it, but I know it saved my life when I was given up by the doctors and had really been dead for weeks; that it has kept me in perfect health ever since and has cured many of my friends to whom I have recommended it. There are a number of very remarkable cases in Lynn and Salem, as well as in this city, that it has cured. My recovery is so remarkable that it has excited much attention, and physicians as well as others have investigated it thoroughly. I am glad they have, for I feel that the results of such a wonderful cure should be known to the thousands in all parts of the land who are suffering from troubles of the Kidneys, liver, or heart in some of their many dangerous forms."

The representative of the press thanked Mr. Larrabee for his very frank and clear statement, and was about to leave the office when a gentleman stepped up to him and inquired if he was seeking information about Mr. Larrabee's sickness and recovery. The scribe replied that he was, whereupon the gentleman said:

"And am I, and I have come all the way from Chicago for that very purpose. Kidney troubles seem to be alarmingly increasing all over the country, and I have a very near relative who is afflicted much as Mr. Larrabee was. I have been to see the physicians of whom Mr. Larrabee speaks, and I tell you, sir, it is simply wonderful."

"What did they say?" asked the man of news.

"Say! why, sir, they fully confirm everything Mr. Larrabee has stated. I went to see Dr. D. A. Johnson, at 20 Worcester street. He was absent when I called and as I stepped into the Commonwealth Hotel where Mr. Larrabee was living at the time of his sickness, Messrs. Brugh & Carter are the proprietors, and I asked them about Mr. Larrabee's case. Mr. Brugh pointed to me the electric annunciator and said 'why for weeks and weeks every time that bell rang I said: That means the death of Mr. Larrabee. No one around the hotel ever dreamed that he would recover and when the doctors would come down from his room they would shake their heads and say there was no hope. The arrangements for the funeral were all made and his recovery was simply a miracle."

I then called on Dr. Johnson who said that Mr. Larrabee's case was a very remarkable one. He was his family physician and expected his death every hour for a number of weeks and never called to see him during that time, but he was prepared for it. The doctor said the recovery was due to Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure and if he had friends, male or female, troubled with albumen or any kidney troubles he should certainly advise them to use this remedy. Dr. Johnson said kidney difficulties are more common than most people think and that many symptoms which are supposed to be other diseases arise from the kidneys. He said that ladies after gestation are specially subject to albuminous troubles which require prompt attention.

Well, I next came down and called on Dr. H. Ingersoll Bowditch on Boylston street. The old doctor was inclined to be reticent but fully confirmed all I had previously learned. He had attended Mr. Larrabee, had supposed him to be beyond all hope, and was afterwards restored, as he said, by Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.

I next went to see Dr. Melville E. Webb, at the Hotel Ginny, for you see I was determined to be thorough in the matter. I found Dr. Webb a most clear-headed and well-informed gentleman, and he said:

"I know of Mr. Larrabee's case from having thoroughly investigated it as medical director of a Life Insurance company, and it is one of the most remarkable cases I have ever met. Mr. Larrabee had all the manifestations of a complication of diseases, and in their worst forms. He had albumen and casts in the urine, and a terribly diseased liver and spleen. Indeed, he was so bad that he threw himself upon the floor, and with his head upon a hassock, struggled for breath. It was on the night when he was so bad and when all his medical advisors had long given him up that he began using Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. The next morning at 10 o'clock he was able to breathe freely, and has been ever since. I subjected him to the most thorough examination possible, after his recovery, and I can find out about him." His kidneys, liver, lungs and heart are perfectly well and sound. I can only add that, from what I have seen, I should unhesitatingly recommend this remedy."

The conclusion from the statement above made, which come to the newspaper man as well as to the general public, must be two-fold. First, that a modern miracle of healing has been performed in our midst, and that, too, by the simplest means and one which is within the reach of every one; and secondly, that testimonials of such high character and so outspoken in tone conclusively prove the value of the remedy and its superior nature to the proprietary articles with which the public have been flooded. "The greater includes the less," and the remedy which has been proven so valuable and has saved a life after it was brought down to death's door, must unquestionably be certain in all minor troubles which are so disastrous unless taken in time.

Newport Daily News, and the Newport Journal.

The Newport Daily News is published every afternoon (Sundays excepted), at the News Building, 137 Thames street, by Davis & Pitman.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies and at least one good story, the latest markets and a complete and comprehensive summary of the news,—local and general. The Journal is a large 32 column paper and contains a large amount of reading matter that is valuable to readers in town or country who desire a good Newport paper, but who do not take a daily from this city.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $6 per annum, or 12 cents a week, payable to carrier.

The Newport Journal will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 a year. A discount of 50 cents is made when the WHOLE YEAR is paid STRICTLY IN ADVANCE.

These terms are invariable.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines, or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter, are charged for, at 50 per cent, extra and are subject to editorial revision. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the Daily for one week or longer. Funeral notices 50 cents each. Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business and are allowed twenty-five changes a year. The circulations of the News and Journal being necessarily distinct, an advertisement inserted in both papers will reach entirely different sets of readers. As further inducement for advertisers to use both the News and Journal, a liberal discount on the combined rates is made.

PRINTING.

Connected with the News is a large and well appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

The job office has recently been supplied with new type and a new press, especially adapted to fine work. Liberal supplies of choice papers, envelopes and cards, always on hand. Prices as low as possible for first class work.

Newport Daily News.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 1881.

The Odd Fellows had a jolly time yesterday.

A new telegraph company is springing up in opposition to the Western Union and gives promise of success.

An exchange says:—It will generally be found that in public offices where the "salary is not an object" the pickings and stealings are of very great moment.

The Hon. Rowland Hazard, whose able plea in behalf of Credit Mobilier was recently published, now appears on the platform as an advocate of civil service reform.

The more the light is turned in upon the postoffice frauds under the last administration the worse the matter appears. Gen. Brady is disgraced beyond hope of recovery.

Sarah M. Briggs of Providence gave a legacy of $1000 each to the Children's Friend Society, the Old Ladies Home, and the Old Men's Home of that city, all worthy charities.

Wm. G. Cochran, of Philadelphia will summer at the Cliff Cottages. Most of the apartments in the hotel are now engaged for the season, and but two of the eight cottages remain unrented.

Says the New York Herald, "Colonel Ingersoll delighted an immense audience last night and can be sure of many more, for every bad character in New York wants to believe that Christianity is a fraud."

The contest over the election of City Marshal today is quite spirited. At last accounts the markers at the polls report Mr. Congdon ahead. Report says, also, that Mr. Peckham will be chosen to the Council from the Second Ward.

Under the heading "Something to laugh at" a New York paper publishes the following:—"A put-up job—a physician's prescription." We admit the statement but object to the heading. There is nothing "to laugh at," unless one is a physician.

Barnum evidently thinks his name worth considerable. He has sued the Philadelphia Sun for $100,000 damages for saying that he had no proprietary interest in the London Show Combination but hired out his name for his own and the show's benefit.

The charging of large fees appears to be becoming all the rage. A New York physician has brought suit to recover $5000 for professional attendance, charging at the rate of $100 a visit, that being just about ten times as much as the fees of the very best doctors in that city. A Halifax, N. S., editor has brought a suit to recover $150,000 for assisting a widow in having her husband's will made in her favor. Next.

The Southern people have said that all was lovely at their recent election. But they begin to admit that there was some crookedness. The Charleston News and Courier says:—"The election 'irregularities,' or whatever else we please to call them, were justified and justifiable—just as revolution and rebellion is permissible when there is no other escape from tyrannical government, under which neither life nor property is safe." This confession tells the story as effectually as it was narrated in Senator Frye's speech.

The contests which sometimes spring up between newspapers and office-holders has taken a rather serious turn in Fall River. A member of the City Council became offended at an article in last week's Labor Standard, and attacked Editor Gunton in a cowardly manner, kicking and striking him repeatedly. Gunton, who is a very much smaller man than Harrison, made no resistance, but like all good editors submitted to the operation. Brethren of the quill will be more cautious henceforth and learn better than to speak ill of members of the City Council.

There are some idiots alive yet. One of them writes to the Buffalo News asking:—"Did our sons go to war, whip the Southern rebels and lose their lives, or come back to drag their lives slowly away with disease—(as we see our cemeteries filling up with little flags,) to illustrate the colored people and allow them to take possession of our public schools and compel our children to stay at home? Is it not enough when the taxpayer pays for their schools and their teachers? If this is the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment, then we are compelled to take our children out of the public schools and send them to private schools." And closes his communication by saying, "Before long the colored people will demand that the white people shall let them live with them in their own rooms." Well really, the "colored person" who would want, or be compelled, to live with such as he would be deserving of the greatest pity.

The late James T. Fields was a favorite among the literary classes, though no well informed person will be inclined to place him in the front rank, either as an author or a lecturer. He was a gentleman in the best sense of the word, and possessed of those qualities that secure the friendship and good will of his associates. In early life he exhibited marked ability and when but 18 years old delivered the anniversary poem before the Mercantile library association of Boston, Edward Everett being the orator; and in 1848, when he was 30, he was again the poet of the association, with Daniel Webster as orator. It was his good fortune while in business to be thrown into the society of literary men, and he made a wide acquaintance with authors whose books he published, and who in turn aided him on to fortune. Mr. Fields became, thus, the friend of the best writers of the age, both in Europe and America. As editor of the Atlantic he showed tact and skill, and his books and essays are possessed of merit that entitle his name to the highest respect. As a pleasant, genial man of letters, Boston has no one who was his equal, but he has left no works behind that will place his name in the list of authors to be remembered by future generations.

THE MINNESOTA SUICIDE.

VERDICT OF THE CORONER'S JURY IN THE CASE OF YOUNG KIRSCH.—SUICIDE BY HANGING.

In the inquest on young Kirsch the coroner's jury consisted of Messrs. Wm. H. Westcott, M. Cottrell, Thomas M. Norman, 2d, John J. Peckham, Arthur R. Tuell and Officer Caswell. The only witnesses examined were the master-at-arms and the corporal of the guard. The verdict was that the deceased came to his death from suicide by hanging. It has been ascertained that he told a companion that he meant either to hang himself or cut his throat. He felt that he was utterly disgraced by being considered a thief and seemed to dread meeting his friends in New York as he well knew that he was to be taken there during the present week by his father. During the day, however, he was in usually good spirits and showed no signs of depression. He doubtless had his plans well laid and when the opportunity presented itself he quietly ended his existence. The body was prepared for burial, the services being held on board the ship Tuesday afternoon. The remains were subsequently brought ashore and temporarily placed in the tomb to await advices from his parents. A squad of marines and apprentice boys, headed by officers from the vessel and the ship's band, formed the funeral cortege which attracted a good deal of attention as it wended its way to the silent city of the dead. The casket was wrapped in the American ensign and in every possible manner respect was shown to the memory of the lad who had taken his life in such a tragic manner. The sad event has cast a gloom over the ship. The body was forwarded to New York this noon by Undertaker Cottrell for burial.

THE MISSING MAN.

THE DEAD BODY OF JOHN MURPHY WASHED ASHORE.

The body found on the shore at Rose Island proves to be that of John Murphy, who has been missing from Mrs. Anderson's boarding house on Thames street since the night of February 6th. Mrs. Anderson and his sister identified the remains by his underclothing, a part of which had been made by the first named lady. The body was in a terrible state of decomposition. The jury who viewed the body consisted of Officer Caswell, A. R. Tuell, J. J. Peckham, T. M. Norman, Charles Cottrell and W. H. Westcott. Verdict, death by drowning. It will be remembered that the deceased started for Fort Adams on the ice in company with private O'Toole of the 1st U. S. Artillery. The cries of some of the men were heard distinctly at Fort Adams and the alarm was sent out the following morning. Search was instituted at once but no trace was found of the soldier. After a week or two Mrs. Anderson received a letter from Murphy's friends in Stonington making inquiries about him. Mrs. Anderson replied that he left her house February 6th and she presumed that he went direct to Stonington. It was afterwards ascertained that he and O'Toole were together on the evening in question and that they were seen as late as 8 o'clock in the evening on their way to the Fort where Murphy desired to go to see a friend. O'Toole's body has never been found but there is no doubt but that he was also drowned at the same time. The body will be sent to New York tonight by Undertaker Cottrell, where he leaves a sister and an uncle.

ONE OF FORTUNE'S FAVORITES.—A New York paper says of Elliot F. Shephard, whose name has recently been mentioned with a high government appointment:—"Twenty years ago there was a young fellow in a lawyer's office down town, who had no money, but was quick-witted, well educated and ambitious. At this time he had no prospect of advancement. As the husband of one of Mr. Vanderbilt's daughters, he will soon occupy one of the Vanderbilt palaces, and his children will be heirs to the Vanderbilt millions."

ODD FELLOWSHIP.

THE SIXTY-SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF ITS ESTABLISHMENT YESTERDAY IN PROVIDENCE.

The celebration of the sixty-second anniversary of Odd Fellowship, which took place in Providence yesterday, was a grand affair. Newport was represented by Rhode Island Lodge, comprising seventy-five men, and the Newport band. A large number of invited lodges took part in the procession.

The Newporters, who were the guests of Westminster Lodge, No. 27, were very hospitably entertained by them at their lodge room. About two hundred sat down to table and after a sufficient supply of grape and canister had been laid in Noble Grand A. J. Konch, of Westminster, acting as toast-master, gave the toast:—"Odd Fellowship, and the day we celebrate." A fitting response was made by P. G. George Young, of Rhode Island Lodge. The toast: "Rhode Island Lodge," was responded to by P. G. Jere. W. Horton. Several other toasts were given, after which the brethren retired to the upper lodge room, where their wives were awaiting them, they having been amply provided for while the lords of creation were at the table below. A concert by the Newport band followed, and then the two lodges marched to the street. Here the members were "sandwiched," and in this order they descended to the Newport boat. At the wharf all joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," the band playing the accompaniment. Rhode Island Lodge then embarked, and amidst cheers and tigers the boat steamed out into the river and down the bay. Westminster Lodge then went back to their quarters and dispersed.

In the evening there was a grand banquet in Infantry Hall at which over six hundred persons participated. After the cloth had been removed a number of toasts were proposed which were appropriately responded to.

In response to the toast:—The city of Newport—we rejoice that its many attractions, which have long made it the home of wealth, culture and refinement, have at last been recognized by the government, and henceforth it will be noted not only for its salubrious climate, its unrivalled harbor and its beautiful ladies, but as the location of the United States Training School—Mr. J. P. Sanborn, of this city, made a very happy speech, speaking of the city's glorious history, of her Perrys, Ellerys and Hunters, of her ancient Norseman annals, dating back eight centuries before the landing of Columbus, and of her wealth, prosperity and intellectual characteristics.

A MISSTATEMENT CORRECTED.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

It had not been my intention to have answered any of the disagreeable remarks made in reference to myself by your correspondents, but when I am charged with having said that it was my purpose to use money in connection with the fight now going on, I feel called upon to say a word in defence.

In the City Hall at the time referred to by "S. H. H." were Col. Honey, Mr. Lewis Brown, Mr. F. G. Harris and myself. The three first named had been advising me to withdraw from the contest, and finally Mr. Harris said, "why Read, to make an active canvas and fight it will cost you two hundred dollars." Then, without a thought that the remark would be taken in earnest, I, pulling out a roll of bills which subsequently was paid to Mr. J. G. Spingler as a part of a mortgage, said, "Well, gentlemen, here are three hundred dollars toward it." That is the whole story and I refer to the gentlemen above named to bear me out.

Respectfully, H. E. READ.

GAS IN ENGLAND.

HOW A LARGE ENGLISH CITY IS SUPPLIED WITH CHEAP GAS.

The manufacture and sale of gas at Manchester is a gigantic business, skilfully conducted by a body of citizens without pay. The achievements of the committee are, indeed, remarkable. They supply gas in the city cheaper, for the illuminating quality, than any other corporation or company, reckoning—as we ought for purposes of comparison—the amounts they pay from gas profits for street lighting and for improvements. The rate within the city will be in December 2s. 10d. per 1,000 cubic feet for gas of an illuminating power of 21.32 candles. The amount paid last year from gas profits for improvements was £52,000, and for street lighting £23,000, equal together to 9½d. per 1,000 feet. The gas works in Manchester have always been the property of the inhabitants. Originally they were directed by a body of thirty directors, selected from a commission of police. Up to 1835 they had a debt of £80,000. It has been the custom from the first to apply the gas profits to town improvements. In 1831 the sum paid for this purpose was £3000; in 1835 it had risen to £10,135. The price of gas has steadily been reduced. In 1835 it was 12s per 1000 cubic feet; in 1844, 6s.; up to 1870, 3s.; then by a series of gradual reductions it has come down to the present figure of 3s. and in a few days a further reduction will be made to 2s. 10d per 1000 cubic feet. There is no committee of the council that does more work than this. They are great manufacturers and traders, and, as in any business, every point in connection with buying and selling has to be watched so as to obtain a satisfactory result. In the mere purchasing of cannel coal the penny per ton is equal to £1,000 a year, as will be seen when we say that 240,000 tons were carbonized last year. On the other side, a reduction in the price of gas of 1d. per 1,000 cubic feet means over £8,000 per annum. The committee have been very busy of late years watching the many valuable improvements in gas making, and notably in all labor saving appliances. They have lately engaged an engineer of ability, whose business it is to watch over all the details of production and all the multifarious appliances at the immense works. The heaviest day's consumption has been over 13,000,000 cubic feet, and the storage capacity of all the holders is over 21,000,000.—[Manchester Guardian.

KING LEAR AND HIS DRESS.

The costume of Lear had long been left to the taste or the fancy of the performers. Garrick's aspect in the part was unpicturesque enough. He wore a court dress with silk stockings, buckled shoes and ruffled wrists; his powdered wig was dishevelled and his face gravat was disarranged. Royal robes dangled from his shoulders; but, indeed, he looked more like Lord Oglesby than King Lear. Macready is said to have been the first Lear who wore a beard; Garrick was smooth-shaven, as was John Kemble. Macready worn robes of velvet such as theatrical antiquarianism could not approve. Mr. C. Kean, in his selection of dresses, arms and implements, and in the pictorial accompaniments, whether architectural or sylvan sought to present "an original picture of early Saxon England, at a time when the land was peopled with rude heathens, and the minds and hearts of men, as yet unreclaimed by the softening influences of Christianity, were barbarous and cruel." He ascribed the action of the drama to the eighth century:—a period sufficiently remote to accord with the subject, but still within the scope of authority in regard to manners, customs and costumes.—[All the Year Round.

NEW ENGLAND NOTES.

Hull, Mass., will celebrate its bi-centennial on July 28th.

On Friday evening a Board of Trade will be organized at Attleboro, Mass.

The stockholders of the Boston Water Power Company had their annual meeting yesterday.

The Town Hall at Marion, Mass., was burned Monday night. No insurance. Probably incendiarism.

The Andover Conference of Congregational churches met with the High street society in Lowell yesterday.

Charles W. Warren, a lawyer of Northwood, N. H., was sentenced to two years in State Prison Monday, for bigamy.

The body of a man, apparently about 40 years old, 4 feet 11 inches high, with sandy hair, and clad in gray clothing with a blue blouse and thick shoes newly tapped was found near Oxford, Mass., Monday.

James Tracey, who killed Mrs. Pope on Saturday at her house in Jasper place, Boston, was arraigned in the Municipal Court on Monday before Judge May, and waiving examination was fully committed to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The conductors and drivers of the Metropolitan street railroad yesterday received notice from President Richards expressing the hope that they would remain in their positions, but at the same time requesting those who wished to resign to do so this week.

The committee appointed to erect a statue of Leif, the Norseman, son of Eric, propose to place the monument on the triangle of land owned by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts in front of that building. The work has been confided to Mr. J. Q. A. Ward, and $1500 of the required $20,000 has been raised.

Hon. John G. Palfrey died in Boston yesterday, aged 85. He was many years ago professor of sacred literature at Harvard College, and later became prominent in politics; was at one time Postmaster of Boston, editor of the North American Review, and had held other positions of prominence in theology, politics and literature.

The Crescent Regiment of New Orleans, which will hold its fourth annual competition drill on the Fair Grounds in that city May 19 and 20, invites infantry organizations from Massachusetts and other states to participate. Valuable prizes are offered visiting troops. Entries close May 10, and Boston companies who are seeking honors will do well to consider the proposition.

An Agawam man with a large family and in very depressed financial circumstances, who for months has been out of employment, applied to the Franconia for a situation in the works. Mr. Warr kindly gave him a steady job, and for a number of weeks he worked well under good pay. This month as soon as herring struck on he gave up his situation in the iron works and went to watching herrings run up the weir, and catching a stray one once in a while, which business he still pursues, making about 25 cents per day on an average. In the iron works he could receive $1.75 per day the whole year round.

FARM AND GARDEN.

TEST YOUR SEED CORN.—C. E. Thorne of the Ohio University writes under date April 14:—Tests made in our hot beds this spring give twenty-eight plants to the 100 grains from our earliest corn—the Learning—which was husked in good season and cribbed in a small, dry crib, while the best ears of this, which were selected at the time of cribbing, and thrown into a small pile in an open loft, yield at the rate of 65 plants to the 100 grains, showing that serious trouble is in store for those who can not procure seed from the crop of 1879.

SUCCESS WITH EGGS.—French "egg farmers" are proverbially successful. Here is an outline of their method:—An egg farmer has two poultry establishments: in one the fowls are inclosed in a yard and fed on grain; each hen during four years lays 103 eggs annually, and its keep is valued at $1,00 per year. The second establishment allows the fowls to find their own food about the yards, and in a large manure-pit; these hens lay 111 eggs each year per annum. The birds are sold when in their fourth year. To mark their age, when one to three months old, one toe, on the right foot, is cut off: the following year a second, and the next a third; the fourth year tells its own tale. To preserve eggs during ten months and fresh, place them in a bath of whitewash, turning them every second or third day. The poultry shed ought to be swept once a week, fresh straw added, and the walls washed with a solution of one-twentieth of sulphuric acid and water.

CHEMICAL NATURE OF ENSILAGE.—A good deal of discussion having taken place among the friends as well as opponents of the use of silos, some claiming that ensilage contends large quantities of alcohol and other fermented matters, imparting to it the character of still-slops, while others urge adverse opinions, we applied to Prof. Johnson of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, for the results of any analyses bearing on the question. In his reply, he says:—"A sample of ensilage examined recently at the laboratory contained 0.66 per cent. of free acid, [one part in one hundred and fifty,] reckoned as acetic acid. No alcohol could be detected by odor, nor have I observed any alcoholic odor in any samples I have seen. If alcohol be present it must be in exceedingly minute quantity, and I apprehend no detriment from that cause. The injurious effects of 'swill milk,' or that from still-slops, are not due, I believe, to any injurious quality as cattle food, but to the exclusive use of food that does not of itself nourish the cows sufficiently, and to the unhealthy starved animals kept in ill ventilated and filthy stables."

RELEASED.

A little swallow, flying about the College des Quatre Nations in Paris one day, became entangled in a piece of thread that was fastened to a spout in the wall. It struggled to free itself, but in vain; and, wearied by its efforts, it uttered piteous cries for help. In a short time, all the swallows from between the Pont des Tuileries and Pont Neuf had gathered about him, flying up and down with cries of pity and alarm, and seeming to consult together over means of relieving him. At last, a brilliant thought struck one of the many feathered friends, and in their own language he communicated it to the others. They all at once placed themselves in order, and flying up one after another, struck at the thread with their beaks. The tiny blows, if given singly, could never have broken the stubborn thread; but coming in quick succession, on the same spot, it was not long before the thread broke, and the little captive was set free, amid the rejoicings and congratulations of its friends.

A naturalist has discovered that monkeys may be taught to dance. Taught to dance, indeed! We have seen them dance a hundred times at pawnbrokers' in the fawney downtown. —[N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

A CRADLE IN THE CLOUDS.

Writing of "The Wild Sheep of the Sierra," in the May Scribner, John Muir says:—

"In the months of May and June, they bring forth their young, in the most solitary and inaccessible crags, far above the nesting rocks of the eagle. I have frequently come upon the beds of the ewes and lambs at an elevation of from twelve (to thirteen thousand feet above sea level. The beds are simply oval-shaped hollows, pawed out among loose, disintegrating rock-chips and sand, upon some sunny spot commanding a good outlook, and partially sheltered from the winds that sweep those lofty peaks almost without intermission. Such is the cradle of the little mountaineer, aloft in the very sky; rocked in storms, curtained in clouds, sleeping in thin, icy air; but wrapped in his hairy coat, and nourished by a strong, warm mother, defended from the talons of the eagle and teeth of the sly coyote, the bonnie lamb grows apace. He soon learns to nibble the tufted rock-grasses and leaves of the white spirea; his horns begin to shoot, and before summer is done he is strong and agile, and goes forth with the flock, watched by the same divine love that tends the more helpless human lamb in its warm cradle by the fireside."

A new hydraulic ship has been built in Germany, and on her trial recently accomplished nine knots an hour. Two hundred years ago the experiment was made of propelling vessels by expelling water from the stern, and failed, as not sufficient speed was attained. The new method was based on the assumption that the propelling force depends on the contact of surfaces, and not on the sectional area of the flowing mass, so a number of tubes with narrow outlets are used instead of one large tube.

A distinguished French scientist has lately examined spring, river, sea and rain water, and also snow, and finds alcohol in all of it save very pure spring water. What do our temperance folks think of this?—[Baltimorean. Said scientist must have been in the employ of one of the water companies because when the above becomes more widely known the consumption will be greatly increased.

"Why, gentlemen," said President Gowen of the Reading, in his speech at Philadelphia, "If you want to go out to the penitentiary, and will blindfold yourselves, you can, by the sense of touch only, pick out every second inmate of that institution, and you will have a more pure, a more correct and a more upright class of citizens than you send to your Legislature and to your city councils."

The other day we spoke of "practical house building," and a Cleveland paper wants to know what impracticable house building would be. The editor has only to try building a house according to plans drawn by himself to find out.—[Boston Post.

Or let him try to build a house by commencing at the roof.

In Vineland, N. J., they have tried the experiment of covering bunches of grapes when they are as large as small shot with paper bags. It is claimed that the clusters so covered were more perfect and the flavor vastly improved.

We ventured to predict when President Garfield's cabinet was formed that Secretary Blaine would not remain in it two years. We are still strong in the faith.—[Boston Transcript.

It has been said that Lotta could stand on her head and not a woman in the house would think her indelicate. She has the rare gift of an always innocent aspect.

What is the debt for which you cannot be sued? The debt of nature.—[Baltimorean. No need of suing. The debt is always paid on demand.

PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS.

NEWPORT, SC. CITY OF NEWPORT.

WHEREAS, the Board of Aldermen of this city, at a meeting held April 21, 1881, after counting the ballots given in at the Ward Meetings held on the 20th inst., declared that the qualified electors had failed to make choice of an elector to be City Marshal for one year from the first Monday in June next, and said Board also declared that the electors of the Second Ward qualified to vote upon any proposition to impose a tax or for the expenditure of money, had failed to make a choice for the second member of the Common Council from said ward for one year from the first Monday in June next; and, WHEREAS, said Board then appointed Wednesday, the 27th day of April, 1881, for Ward Meetings to be held for new elections for City Marshal and for Second Councilman of the Second Ward, and directed that a warrant be issued therefor, and appointed the following named places for holding said Ward Meetings, viz:—

In the First Ward—At the Ward Room, Bridge street;

In the Second Ward—At the Justice Court Room, State House;

In the Third Ward—At the "Perry House," Touro street, West room, lower floor;

In the Fourth Ward—At No. 8 Engin House, Prospect Hill street;

In the Fifth Ward At the Ward Room, Young street;

NOW, THEREFORE, the qualified electors of this city are hereby notified and warned to assemble in their respective Ward Meetings, at the above named places, on said Wednesday, April 27, A. D. 1881, at half-past six o'clock in the morning, and to give in their ballots for one elector of said city to be City Marshal for one year from the first Monday in June next; and, the electors of the SECOND WARD qualified to vote upon any proposition to impose a tax or for the expenditure of money, are hereby notified and warned to give in their ballots at the Ward Meeting in said Ward on said Wednesday, April 27, A. D. 1881, for one elector of said Ward to be the second member of the Common Council from said Ward for one year from the first Monday in June next.

Said Ward Meetings, according to law, will be kept open from half-past six o'clock in the morning until half-past six o'clock in the evening, and no longer.

Proposals for Collection and Removal of Swill and House Offal.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH AN ORDER OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH, sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk until Tuesday, May 3, 1881, at 5 o'clock, P. M., for collecting and removing Swill and House Offal in this city, for the remainder of the present calendar year.

The contractors will be required to collect, and remove outside of the limits of the compact part of the city, the swill and house offal from every house in the city (excepting only those whose occupants decline to permit them to do so), four times a week during May, June, July, August, September and October, and three times a week during November and December, and oftener if required, or it be necessary to prevent nuisance and decomposition; the collection must be made in air-tight tubs carried in proper carts or vehicles by one or more horses or mules; every cart, with the tubs also, must be kept clean and well painted, the carts licensed, numbered and plainly lettered "City Swill Cart" and the tubs must be kept tightly closed while being drawn through the city.

The contractors will be required also to call in person at the Police station, or to send some one authorized to act for them, between 9 o'clock and 11 o'clock A. M., on the days named for collecting and removing such swill and offal, to receive and attend promptly to any complaints of neglect or otherwise, which may be made; they will also be required not to allow any nuisance or annoyance to be caused to any inhabitant in consequence of depositing any swill or offal in any place outside of the limits of the compact part of the city, and not to keep any swine within one quarter of a mile from said limits as defined by ordinance.

Bidders are requested to propose for the whole city, also for each ward separately or for either of the wards separately. All proposals to be marked "Proposals for Collecting and Removing Swill and House Offal"; the right to reject any or all is reserved, also the right to award the contract in whole or portions, or to one, or more persons

FRANK H. BARKER. STEPHEN P. BARKER, JR.

TENNYSON'S "LORD OF BURLEIGH."

All readers know—most of them know by heart—Tennyson's charming ballad of the "The Lord of Burleigh." It is an interesting story and a true story—that is to say, in the main outline, although poetic treatment, as is generally the case, has interfered with the details. A few persons connected with the story, or who know the details from the principal persons, are still alive, and from them I have obtained the facts.

The Lord of Burleigh is, of course, the Marquis of Exeter, who married a poor cottager. He was an amateur artist, indeed, but he was not the youthful artist delineated by the poet Tennyson. Lord Exeter was a widower. He had been unhappily married and divorced from his wife by an act of Parliament. He was a man who used to lay aside all the trappings of rank, and betake himself to quiet ways of wandering about the country to paint. In this guise he used to wander through various secluded districts and many of the wise among us know the rest and quiet which such solitary wanderings give. He made friends of the peasantry folk, and became on great terms of intimacy with some of the humble people. Our readers will recollect that something of this kind was the case with a Lord Byron and a Lord Aberdeen. There was one poor cottage where he was especially made welcome, and which, for two or three years, he made his headquarters. It so happened that, in the course of these wanderings, Lord Exeter fell ill. In his favorite cottage he was nursed and well cared for. One of those who attended the sick peer with the greatest kindness and attention was a daughter of the house, a young girl of fifteen. The sick man was greatly touched by this kindness and attention. It is a curious fact that your middle-aged men often fall in love with quite a young girl; and it is a still more curious fact that the young girl will just as often, or as seldom, fall in love with the middle-aged man. It is not till after the marriage that the radical incongruity between May and December is made apparent. Lord Exeter determined to make the young girl his bride and enthrone her in state at "Burleigh House by Stamford town." Things, however, were not exactly managed as set forth in the lyric. Lord Exeter thought that his future wife was both too young and too uneducated for her great position. The young lady was sent to a good school and received an excellent training. All this time he religiously preserved the secret of his rank. They were married, and then came the great sensational surprise of his declaring his rank and welcoming her as the Lady of Burleigh. The melancholy conclusion of Tennyson's ballad is in the main true enough. The young girl thus married had several children, and then she faded away. Perhaps it was, as the poet says, "through the burden of a greatness to which she was not born." Perhaps it was not only the inequality of station but the inequality of ages and tastes. Such is the true story of this romantic and famous marriage. It comes to me indirectly through a brother of the bride, an unbeneficed clergyman of the Church of England, who, though sent to college at the expense of his brother-in-law, had reasons for afterwards refusing promotion from the Exeter family. He was for many years curate of Sefton, near Liverpool. The bride's name was the unpoetical one of Sarah Hoggins, as may be verified by a reference to the "Peerage."—[London Society.

HOME FRIENDSHIPS.—If we cultivate home friendships with the same assiduity that we give to those outside, they will yield us even richer and fairer returns. There is no friendship so pure and beautiful in its nature, so rich and full in its power of blessing, or so singularly rare in its occurrence, as that between parents and their grown-up sons and daughters. Where the parental and filial instincts are supplemented by that higher and more spiritual affection that binds together minds in intellectual communion and souls in heartfelt sympathy, few deeper or more delightful friendships can be imagined. The guardian and dependent gradually lose themselves in the dear companion and true friend of later life; and youth becomes wiser and age brighter, and both noble and happier in this loving and abiding union.

Last summer she was gnawing green corn from the cob, when her teeth got entangled with a corn silk. "Oh, dear," said she, impatiently, "I wish when they get the corn made they would pull out the basting threads."—[Cincinnati Saturday Night.

"Major, I see two cocktails carried to your room every morning, as if you had someone to drink with." "Yes, sir; one cocktail makes me feel like another man: and of course, I'm bound to treat the other man."

Physicians

Have Signed or Endorsed the Following Remarkable Document:

Messrs. Seabury & Johnson, Manufacturing Chemists, 21 Platt St., New York:

Gentlemen:—For the past few years we have sold various brands of Porous Plasters. Physicians and the Public prefer Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster to all others. We consider them one of the very few reliable household remedies worthy of confidence. They are superior to all other Porous Plasters or Liniments for external use.

Benson's Capcine Plaster is a genuine Pharmaceutical product, of the highest order of merit, and so recognized by physicians and druggists.

When other remedies fail get a Benson's Capcine Plaster.

You will be disappointed if you use cheap Plasters, Liniments, Pads or Electrical Magnetic toys.

A SURE REMEDY AT LAST. Prepared by A MEAD'S Medicated CORN and BUNION PLASTER.

TAKE NOTICE!

JUST RECEIVED, A LARGE INVOICE OF GRASS SEEDS!

Also three carloads of nice Western Oats, which we are selling very low.

Try our HERBALINE—something new—for bedding. It will wear longer than rye straw and is much cheaper. We have constantly on hand Corn and Feed Meal, Rhode Island Meal and Graham. We have in storehouse a large supply of choice Canada Hay in large and small bales. We keep the very best brands of Flour in the market, which we sell low for cash, and everything that is found in a first class grain store.

MAKE NO DELAY,

Meaning You.

The months of March, April and May are the three arches of a bridge which binds the season of ice to that of roses. Therefore Spring is a trying period for invalids. Indeed all of disease should now be heeded at once. If you are vexed with indigestion, disordered Liver or Kidneys, want of appetite, constipation of the Bowels or feverish skin, take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy without an hour's delay. It is mild, quick and positive in its action. Keep it in the house when you are at home, and take it with you on journeys; you can have no better friend.

It adapts itself to the common ills of every day, and should be found in every family where this journal is read. What Favorite Remedy is recommended to do it will do. Ask your Druggist for it. But little money is wanted; only One Dollar a bottle.

"Favorite Remedy" is the friend of childhood and should be found in every nursery in the land. Keep it in your house for your children's sake as well as for your own. For women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to the sex, Favorite Remedy proves a real blessing. Try it and you will be glad you saw this article. Make no mistake. The medicine is "Favorite Remedy," and the proprietor's name and address: Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

Patients living at a distance, (except in surgical cases), by sending a statement of their case can be treated at home. s14-4w

THE GREAT

KIDNEY REGULATOR

AND DIURETIC.

Kidnegen is highly recommended and unsurpassed for Weak or Foul Kidneys, Dropsy, Bright's Disease, Loss of Energy, Nervous Debility, or any obstructions arising from Kidney or Bladder Disease. Also for Yellow Fever, Blood and Kidney Poisoning, in infected malarial sections.

By the distillation of a Forest Leaf with Juniper Berries and Barley Malt we have discovered Kidnegen, which acts specifically on the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, removing deposits in the Bladder and straining, smarting, heat or irritation in the water passages, giving them strength, vigor and causing a healthy color and easy flow of urine. It can be taken at all times, in all climates without injury to the system. Unlike any other preparation for Kidney difficulties it has a very pleasant and agreeable taste and flavor. It contains positive diuretic properties and will not nauseate. Ladies especially will like it, and gentlemen will find Kidnegen the best Kidney Tonic ever used!

Notice.—Each bottle bears the signature of Lawrence & Martin, also a proprietary government stamp, which reveals Kidnegen to be sold (without Bonus) by Druggists, Grocers and other persons everywhere. Put up in quart size bottles for general and family use. If not found at your druggists or grocers, we will send a bottle prepaid to the nearest express office to you.

SURE CURE

For Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Put up in Quart-Size Bottles for Family Use.

Scientifically prepared of Balsam Tolu, Crystallized Rock Candy, Old Rye, and other tonics. The formula is known to our best physicians, is highly commended by them, and the analysis of our most prominent chemist, Prof. G. A. MARINER, in Chicago, is on the label of every bottle. It is well known to the medical profession that TOLU ROCK and RYE will afford the greatest relief for Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Weak Lungs, also Consumption, in the incipient and advanced stages.

Used as a BEVERAGE and APPETIZER, it makes a delightful tonic for family use. Is pleasant to take; if weak or debilitated it gives tone, activity and strength to the whole human frame.

CAUTION. DON'T BE DECEIVED by unprincipled dealers who try to palm off upon you Rock and Rye in place of our TOLU ROCK AND RYE, which is the only medicated article made, the genuine having a GOVERNMENT STAMP on each bottle.
